

THE INSTITUTE OF AFRICAN STUDIES PRESENTS

"Science, Technology and Innovation: The case of systematization of innovation in Angola and its challenges for the development"

WITH

Eurico Josué Ngunga, Visiting Fellow
Institute of African Studies, Carleton University

Wednesday, September 10, 1:00- 2:30 pm
433 Paterson Hall, Carleton University

Prof. Eurico Josué Ngunga is a Visiting Researcher with the Institute in 2014-15. Prof. Ngunga is originally from Angola.

For the past 20 years he has lived in Brazil, where he is currently a faculty member at the Federal University of Minas Gerais. While with IAS, he will be pursuing his doctoral thesis research on "Science, Technology and Innovation: The Case of Systematization of Innovation in Angola and its Challenges."

The objective of this study is to analyze and understand the problems of socio-economic development of Angola, from the challenges of knowledge production, taking into account the program of systematization of Science, Technology and Innovation of the country, in order to reduce existing asymmetries between the peripheral countries and the other OECD countries

This is part of the African Studies Brownbag Seminar Series

(<http://www.carleton.ca/africanstudies/>)

For more information, please contact the Institute of African Studies at 613-520-2600 ext. 2220 or African_Studies@carleton.ca

*For a campus map, please see: <http://www2.carleton.ca/cu/campus/>