

Zelikovitz Centre Student Colloquium:

An Interdisciplinary Discussion on the Academic Study of Religion

Researching Religion: New Approaches

APRIL 17, 2014
303 Paterson Hall
9:00-3:00 p.m.

---

Panelists:

---

"Kallah Classes within North American Hasidic Communities: A representation and tool in constructing social identity."

Benita Arora

B.A. French and Religious Studies

"Secular Religious Extremism? Anti-Islam parties and the politicized assertion of 'Judeo-Christian values.'"

Otilie Kate Grisdale

M.A. European, Russian, and Eurasian Studies

"Orthodox Symbolism in Soviet Film."

Yevgeniya Kramchenkova

M.A. Political Science

"Modernizing the Eternal: Applying the Ever-Changing Interpretations and Moral Constructs upon Qur'an 4:34."

Josh Lloyd-Trinque

M.A. Religion and Public Life

"Troubadours as 'Preachers' of the Middle Ages."

Reiko Lokker

M.A. Religion and Public Life

"Being Good without God: When moral similarity between theists and atheists is threatening to Christians."

Kendra McLaughlin

M.A. Psychology

"The Mass-Production and Consumption of Biblical Narratives in the Graphic Novel."

Christina Pasqua

M.A. Religion and Public Life

"Shamans and Sham: Illustrations of Aboriginal Traditional Knowledge."

Kristyn Rolanty

M.A. Art History

---

The event is free to the public, however, please RSVP to confirm your attendance and direct any questions: zccolloquium2014@gmail.com

Max and Tessie Zelikovitz
Centre for Jewish Studies
CARLETON UNIVERSITY

carleton.ca