Academic Accommodations

You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website: <http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/>

Religious obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website: <http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/>

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send me your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable) at

<http://www2.carleton.ca/pmc/new-and-current-students/dates-and-deadlines/>

You can visit the Equity Services website to view the policies and to obtain more detailed information on academic accommodation at <http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/>

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one's own. Plagiarism includes reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else's published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one's own without proper citation or reference to the original source. Examples of sources from which the ideas, expressions of ideas or works of others may be drawn from include but are not limited to: books, articles, papers, literary compositions and phrases, performance compositions, chemical compounds, art works, laboratory reports, research results, calculations and the results of calculations, diagrams, constructions, computer reports, computer code/software, and material on the Internet. Plagiarism is a serious offence.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course examines the intersection of medicine and the criminal law through a variety of topics and current issues, including historical developments in the criminal law as a mechanism of social control, medical and particularly psychiatric treatment within the prison system, laws on assisted death, reproductive rights, and a number of issues relating to mental illness and the offender population. The class will be primarily delivered through seminar discussions. Active participation will be a crucial part of this course.

REQUIRED TEXTS

There is no required textbook. Course readings will be available online and/or through cuLearn. Cases can be accessed on CanLii or through Carleton's library resources.

EVALUATION

Please note:

*All components must be completed in order to get a passing grade

*You are responsible for checking our course website on a regular basis. Any updates to be communicated outside of class hours will be posted on cuLearn. Please note that attendance in this course is crucial and that not all course content reviewed in class will be posted online.

*Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Department and the Faculty Dean. Grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Department and the Dean. Please keep all graded assignments until after grades have been finalized.

Attendance and Class Participation	Ongoing, taken in most or all lectures. Students must be present when attendance is taken in order to receive credit for being present that day.	20%
Debate Preparation Memo	Due in class October 6 th (see rules on in-class submissions below*). I will identify a debate topic on September 22 nd along with instructions on format and expectations for content.	20%
Position Paper	Due in class November 24 th (see rules on in-class submissions below*). I will identify two legal topics from which to choose in class on November 10 th . You will have two weeks to form a position and write a short paper to advance your argument on your chosen issue. Details on format and additional requirements will be given in class when the options are identified.	20%
Take Home Examination	Due December 21 st in the drop box at the Department of Law and Legal Studies. Late submissions must be supported by a formal extension (for which you must contact the University registrar). All students must prepare their own answers and submit original work.	40%

For all assignments: Please note that no email submissions will be accepted (for any of the assignments). A penalty of 10% per day (including weekends) will be applied to all late assignments. For assignments that are due in lecture, the firm deadline will be 6:15pm on the day of class. Any assignments handed in after that time will be considered 1 day late. If getting to class on time on submission day is an issue, you must make arrangements to submit your assignment at an earlier date. Note that for all assignments submitted in the Institute's drop box, the date stamp affixed by the office will be taken as the date of submission. Extensions will only be granted in extreme circumstances. Please do not assume that an extension will be granted, regardless of the circumstances: contact me as soon as possible to explain your need for an extension. I will request third party documentation for all extensions. If you are requesting an extension on or after the due date, please come to me prepared to show evidence of having worked on the assignment up to that point (in addition to documentation for the extenuating circumstances). Please note that extensions will not be granted for computer failure or for conflicts with work schedules.
